20. Next time I develop an online course, I will do the following differently:

[N/A] [I will have participation scores divided into participation and participation ontime. I will use more powerpoint or some other method of enhancing lessons. I may try short video clips. This is an exciting venue and as I learn I want to try other methods of getting the material to the student. ] [I will go into the class on occasion and check it from a student login to make sure they see the same things that I see. ] [It is critical to have an easy software program for instructors such as Blackboard, however there needs to be a greater degree of security for exams--i.e. being able to print exams from the students computer ect. Students seem to have the perception that an online course is easier than in class, and do not put the necessary time in to get the most out of the class.] [give exams on-line] [Continue to update materials to enhance content and make the course exciting and viable.] [Lengthen the course to at least eight weeks. Incorporate more video, audio, and links to web sites.] [I will continue to add the the foundation I've begun.] [use forum more,use new testing capabilities] [I will use more demonstrations and examples for my students. I will develop a CD with several interactive features on it to enhance the online class. The students will be able to see me, and I will require that they video tape themselves, and they will respond to me. ] [Prepare visual resources further in advance. i.e. pictures, video clips, etc. Limit the number of students to approx. 20 (or less) Use live "chat" Establish more clear deadlines Have a feedback system to let students know when electronic assignments were received (or not received) ] [I will try to control the forum threaded discussions so that I don't have to spend so much time responding to threads and responses. It became overwhelming at times.]
